PRINCETON'S LATEST MURAL, a celebration of tennis and basketball, is on view at the tennis house by the Community Park tennis courts. It was created by Mary Vaughn, art teacher at Stuart Country Day School, who drew 13 caricatures around three of the four outside walls at the invitation of Pat Lange and Bernard Jones, who do professional racquet stringing and sell tennis balls and other equipment inside on weekends and in the evenings during the week.

Bank of New York Sells Hulfish North To Unnamed Buyer, Closing Next Month

The Bank of New York has found a buyer for Hulfish North. The bank foreclosed on the property last year when Collins Development was unable to repay the $40 million it had borrowed from the bank five years earlier.

The purchase contract has been signed, but the name of the buyer and the purchase price will not be announced until the sale is closed. This is expected in early September.

"The bank paid $40 million [for Hulfish North]. It's reasonable to assume the amount it will sell it for will be less," said Mark Yeager, senior vice president of The Sammis Company. Sammis was hired by the Bank of New York to manage and market the property, which consists of office, retail and residential space, and a garage, located on the north side of Hulfish Street, from Chambers Street to Witherspoon Street.

Mr. Yeager did say that Collins Development's Arthur Collins is not the prospective buyer.

Collins Corporation bought Palmer Square from Princeton University in 1981. Its redevelopment plan called for the addition of stores on Palmer Square East and an expansion of the Nassau Inn. All this was accomplished, but Collins' redevelopment of Hulfish North was still incomplete when the Bank of New York foreclosed on the property in October, 1991.

In the eight months since Sammis assumed management of Hulfish North, said Mr. Yeager, it has leased more than 20,000 square feet of office and retail space, completed all 17 residential units, obtained certificates of occupancy for these units, and did a significant amount of capital improvement work.

Notable among the capital improvement projects is the completion of the plaza at Hulfish North, including paving, landscaping, and a new fountain.

Nine of the 17 residential units have been rented. There are no plans now to construct the additional 97 residential units originally planned by Collins. Approval has recently been granted by the Regional Planning Board for landscaping the

Clean Up Efforts Begin At Cuyler Road Property

A big white dumpster has been delivered to 49 Cuyler Road, the unoccupied house described in last week's TOWN TOPICS, and as of Tuesday afternoon was already brimming over with household debris. The grass in the front yard has been mowed, but a section of gutter along the brick portion of the house has fallen off the roof, a casualty of the recent heavy rains added to accumulated debris.

Diane Taylor, a representative of Chemical Bank's Mortgage Department called TOWN TOPICS Monday to say that the bank had taken steps to make sure that outdoor maintenance, such as grass cutting, would be carried out. Ms. Taylor explained that there had been a problem between the department's servicer, a firm in Columbus, Ohio, that is responsible for getting local firms to do maintenance on properties the bank owns, and the firm it had contracted to do the work.

Meanwhile it was learned

Maybury Hill Units Dropped from 11 to 7

Witherspoon Properties, owner of the Maybury Hill property off Snowden Lane, has reduced the number of proposed lots from 11 to 7.

Revised plans filed at the Planning Board indicate that the developer is substituting a conventional subdivision of seven one-acre lots for the previously proposed cluster development but has retained essentially the same amount of open space that would have been required under a cluster plan.

The revised plans show a larger lot surrounding the historic Maybury Hill farmhouse, birthplace of a signer of the Declaration of Independence. This lot is shown as 3.2 acres instead of the 2.5-acre lot originally shown and includes the existing pump house, an existing shed and a wooded area.

Also shown is a 3.6-acre area of open space of environmentally sensitive land surrounding Harry's Brook, which runs through a corner of the property.

The developer has filed floor plans and front elevations for each of the seven houses that

Formal Vote Expected On Pisauro Job Offer At Meeting Thursday

Meeting at 7:30 in the Valley Road meeting room Thursday night, a divided School Board is scheduled to vote on whether to make a formal job offer to M. Lee Pisauro.

In closed session last month, the Board voted 6-2 to offer Mr. Pisauro, deputy superintendent and chief financial officer of the Morris District, the job of business administrator/board secretary, at an annual salary of $91,800.

After the straw vote, Board members were told by School Superintendent Carol Choye that the State Department of Education was reviewing a request by the Morris School Board for a new vote on the school budget.

Because an incorrect number for net valuation was used to calculate the school tax for Morristown, the town's residents will see a 4.7 cent increase in their school tax, instead of the 3.5 cent decrease they had voted to approve.

Last week, Elizabeth A. Whittle, director of the Office of Compliance Investigation of the State Department of Education, said her department was investigating the Morris District, on a matter unrelated to the request for a new vote. She refused to elaborate, although she said that the investigation fell within complaints of alleged local school district fiscal, governance, and management improprieties.

In May, the Daily Record reported that the Division of Compliance was investigating allegations that the State Department of Education improperly allowed changes to be made in the Morris School District's schematic plans shortly before a February 11 bond referendum was held. The referendum related to proposed school renovations. Such changes should have caused a change in the question, the complaint stated.

The referendum was defeated at the polls.

To the distress of School Board member Corinne Kyle, these issues have received extensive coverage in the area press. In a memo to Board members, Ms. Kyle said she was very upset by the "torrent of leaks," and told Board members that they have to respect the confidentiality of closed session. She also told her colleagues that she plans to discuss her concerns in open session Thursday night.

Dr. Choye said Mr. Pisaurio will be at the Thursday meeting, and has been invited into the closed session, which is scheduled in mid-agenda.

The Superintendent said she has not done a full study of the Morris District's financial department, but has talked on a number of matters to Mr. Pisaurio and to the District's superintendent and board president.

"I will share this information with the Board Thursday night," said Dr. Choye, "and review with the Board what I've gathered, which I believe will clarify the situation."

Superintendent Is Issue

Board Member Ann Baynes Coiro said her issue was the superintendent. "I don't think she has been honest with us. She should have told us about this beforehand."

"I don't think this is necessarily a block to hiring Mr. Pisaurio," she added. "Not only has the Board been badly served by the Superintendent's lack of forthrightness, but Mr. Pisaurio has been badly served."

"It's just like Johnson Park," she said. "I feel the Superintendent has acted in a way similar to the Johnson Park situation, when we were not given the information needed to make a critical decision. She gave us this information after we made a decision. I'm really shocked she did this."

On May 7, Board Member Richard Godfrey stated that the Superintendent and Board Secretary were informed on April 15 that Johnson Park would not be ready to open in September, but did not inform the Board until the week of April 27.

A resolution was approved in late May focusing on the need for Board members to be notified immediately of any event which is likely to have a significant impact on the District's schools.

"I think Richard Godfrey's resolution made clear we wanted to know critical information before making a decision," said Ms. Coiro.

are proposed. These plans show rather large colonial-style homes with four or five bedrooms, two-car garages, living and dining room, family room and breakfast area, each plan a different configuration. The architect is listed as W. Todd Springer.

A landscape plan has also been filed for the entire subdivision. It shows an archery ground and croquet area to one side of the historic farmhouse and a kitchen garden to the other, as well as giving details about the types of trees and other plantings that are proposed.

As requested by the developer, the Historic Preservation Commission has scheduled two special meetings on Tuesday, August 25, and Thursday, August 27, to review the plans before the Planning Board's next meeting on Wednesday, September 9, when Maybury Hill will be on the agenda.

area behind the Hulfish North garage, a site that had been intended for the 97 units.

Sammis has leased all but one retail store, and only a few small offices are empty, said Mr. Yeager.

He added that the garage has experienced a significant increase in revenue over the past eight months. This was done by reducing rates for daily parkers and lowering the monthly parking fee to $75. The company also put in a program to make the Hulfish North garage more competitive for half-hour, one-hour, and two-hour parkers.

Last month, Mr. Yeager said that the ground floor space at Hulfish North Plaza has been leased to a new upscale Chinese restaurant, Canton Grill, which is scheduled to open October 1.

Clay St. Reconstruction Is Planned by Borough

Council gave its okay last week to moving ahead with the reconstruction of Clay Street, a one-way street that runs between John and Witherspoon. The street will be reduced in width from 30 to 24 feet, thus allowing the sidewalks to be widened.

The narrowing of Clay Street was in response to concerns voiced at Council meetings about drivers speeding down the curved roadway. Borough Administrator Thomas Shannon noted that a wide one-way street encourages speeding, and that a narrower roadway would help control speeds and maintain a safe traffic situation.

The Borough is also planning to install a handicapped crossing on the street, as well as provide access for the disabled to the office of the Princeton Housing Authority. The housing authority oversees the Clay Street houses, a public housing complex that is home to many families.

The sidewalks will be widened by a foot, and a two-foot planter strip will be added. This will help keep children who are playing on the street further from the curb.

The Borough hopes to place the project out to bid within the next week. Work could then begin by October 1, and the project completed before winter.

One possible glitch is the request by Elizabethtown Water Co. to replace the water main under Clay Street with a new, 12-inch main. It will be necessary to schedule the water company's work before any road reconstruction can begin.

In a severely scaled-down schedule, the Borough planned to reconstruct only three streets this year: Clay, Maple, and Spruce.

Although contractors will be asked to bid on reconstruction of all three streets, the work on Spruce and Maple will not begin until the spring.

The total cost of the three-street capital project is estimated at $775,000. Of this, $135,000 will be used for Clay Street.

In other business, Council agreed to purchase the 55 flag-mounting fixtures used to display flags on Nassau Street during the recent Governors' Conference, and to keep the fixtures in place on lampposts. The fixtures will cost between $600 and $700.

"If we ever have flags again in the lifetime of the holders, it pays to do this," said Councilman David Goldfarb.

Councilman Ray Wadsworth said he had received many comments on how nice the flags looked for the Governors' Conference. He added that, when he saw the American flags in Hopewell during Operation Desert Storm, he thought how much he would like Princeton to have the same thing.

Borough Council also gave permission for a "Jazzfest" to be held October 17 and 18 in Palmer Square. The event will feature outdoor bands and dining.

Expanded Thrift Drug Opens in Shopping Center

Thrift Drug opened in more spacious quarters at Princeton Shopping Center on Monday.

Despite the rain and the fact that the entrance from the parking lot side of the store is closed until repaving is completed, the first few days have gone well, according to manager Joel Romig.

Thrift is occupying 15,000 square feet of the 19,000 square feet formerly occupied by the Aeme Market, twice as much space as it occupied in its former Shopping Center location. Thrift will lease the remaining 4,000 square feet, and according to Chris Hanington, Shopping Center manager, has a "hot prospect" for the space. Efforts to reach Thrift's leasing manager in Pennsylvania were unsuccessful.

Thrift Drug has made the new facility what it calls a "repositioning" store, targeting a more affluent market than the usual Thrift Drug. As such it is the fourth in the entire country, out of 520 Thrift Drug stores in the nation. It offers more gift ideas, including gift baskets, and various sections within the store, such as Body and Bath, Imagery (formerly cosmetics) and Healthy Ideas, offer upscale items.

The idea, says Mr. Romig, is to grab the customer who comes in for a prescription refill and keep him or her for additional shopping. In effect the pharmacy is also a department store.

Harrison Street Closed

South Harrison Street between Western Way and the Harrison Street Bridge will be closed until Friday and again on Monday from 9 in the morning until 3 in the afternoon while Mercer County workmen mill and resurface that section of the roadway.

The repair is expected to take five working days — weather permitting. The Harrison Street Bridge will remain open the whole time, Lt. Mario Musso reported. Traffic will be detoured onto Hartley to Broadmead to Prospect.

When the repaving is completed, there will be entrances from the parking lot side as well as from the mall side, where an awning has yet to be installed.

Tenant for Former Space

Ms. Hanington confirms that the Shopping Center has a signed lease with a prospective tenant for the former Thrift Drug space, but she says that because of some contingencies in the lease she will not say at this time who the tenant is.

There are some small spaces available, ranging in size from 620 square feet to 2,400 square feet, as well as 30,000 square feet on the second floor of the former Epstein's building, now McCaffrey's supermarket. "I suspect these spaces will be scooped soon," Ms. Hanington says, "Because this fall this place will be hopping."

Credit Card Information Is Not on the Menu Here

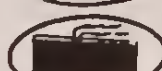

An attempt last week to obtain from three Borough restaurateurs the credit card numbers of their customers failed all three times.

a member of the Borough's detective bureau. He was, he said, investigating the unlawful use of credit cards and asked the restaurant manager to provide the names of customers who had used credit cards the night before and their credit card numbers.

The Annex Restaurant on Nassau Street told him it did not accept credit cards; the Peacock Inn on Bayard Lane refused. The manager of the Alchemist & Barrister Restaurant on Witherspoon Street told the caller he was busy at the time and would call him back. The caller replied, no, he would call him back. He did. But by this time the A&B manager had become suspicious and said he would bring that information to police headquarters.

The managers of both restaurants then called police, Chief Michaud said, to ascertain if police were conducting such an investigation. "They were very aware of the possibilities of a scam."

Police, Chief Michaud added, then checked other upscale restaurants in town that would accept credit cards. They did not uncover any others that were called.

Borough detectives are continuing the investigation.

Process Still Ongoing in Police Chief Selection

There is "nothing new" reported Lyn A. Evers this week in the process of selecting a new Township Chief of Police.

A state law mandates that police chiefs must retire after their 65th birthday. Current Chief Jack F. Petrone, who joined the Township police force in May, 1955, will be 65 on October 15 and will have to leave office by the end of the month. "My last day of work will be the 29th," said Chief Petrone. "They still haven't filled the position."

Ms. Evers, the Township's Assistant Administrator, who is overseeing the selection process for Township Committee, reported that, currently, it is a matter of scheduling oral interviews for the three candidates. Committee has imposed no deadline, she said.

As for the suggestion by Committeewoman Phyllis Marchand that the list of eligible candidates be expanded to include sergeants in addition to the three ranking lieutenants, Ms. Evers commented, "At this point there has been no move to try to expand it."

The three lieutenants who are candidates are Samuel Bianco, 58, head of the department's detective bureau and a 33-year veteran; Anthony Gaylord, 50, a 27-year veteran and Mario Musso, 48, a 25-year veteran, both involved in operations.

Each has taken a written test designed to determine police chief skills and a standard psychological test. All have also submitted their plans outlining how they would run and manage the 37-member department in the future.

As yet, Chief Petrone revealed that he has not been asked to sit in on any part of the selection process — adding that he didn't know if that would change when the process nears an end with the oral interviews. "Right now, I'm just supplying them with information; I'm not involved."

Chief Petrone observed that the selection of a new chief has suffered a little setback because of vacations. It has been difficult, he noted, to get all three available candidates together.

Princeton born (Pine Street) and Princeton educated (St. Paul's School and Princeton High) Chief Petrone was named the department's top officer in July, 1987 when he succeeded Chief Anthony Pinelli who stepped down to move out West.

He and his wife Jean have five sons. The eldest, John, is a Township detective; Judd is one of the department's newest patrolmen.

valued at $2,600 and a brown leather briefcase containing various items valued at $400 were stolen Thursday from a Stanworth Lane apartment. According to Chief Thomas Michaud, the intruder first cut the screen of two other windows but a security device on each prevented their being raised more than a few inches. The suspect then used a lawn chair to successfully enter a third ground-floor window. The items were taken from a room used as an office.

Sometime during the previous week, a thief entered a North Stanworth Lane apartment through a window and stole a Macintosh computer, disc drive and modem from the living room. A printer was also taken from a bedroom.

The items are valued in excess of $500 but Chief Michaud said that police do not have the exact figure. The thefts, he commented, are most likely related. "The same culprit, the same entry, the same kind of articles taken."

According to the largest auto insurer in central New Jersey, the use of a photo inspection system to fight car insurance fraud costs more than it saves.

New Jersey Manufacturers, said company officials, has spent an amount implementing this system that is far in excess of what it has saved.

During the first year of the program, which applies to cars insured on the open market, NJM spent $460,000 on photo inspections, said New Jersey Manufacturers' Spokesman Patrick Breslin. He said that the total amount saved was $8,227.

The inspection program requires that two differently angled photos be taken of each vehicle, that the entire vehicle be looked at, and that there be a written report on the condition of the vehicle.

NJM insures 153,000 vehicles in central New Jersey.

$5 Million to Reduce Lines

On Saturday, the State's 35 automobile inspection centers resumed weekend hours. This week, the 49 motor vehicle service agencies are also planning to resume late hours.

The extra hours are possible because the Legislature intends to restore $5 million dollars cut from the Department of Motor Vehicles' budget, according to Assembly Speaker Garabed "Chuck" Haytaian, R-Warren, and Skip Lee, DMV director.

Mr. Haytaian said the Assembly would approve the $5 million restoration to the DMV when it reconvenes in September. The money is to come from the sale of new reflectorized license plates.

DMV estimates that a half million drivers will pay $10 to exchange their blue tags for the new yellow tags, said Mr. Lee.

The State's $14.6 billion budget cut $5 million from DMV as part of $1.1 billion in spending cuts across State government.

The DMV's 82 inspection stations were open 50 hours a week prior to the cuts, which reduced service to 41 hours a week and led to long lines.

Job Action Threatened

Union officials say that corrections officers in the State's overcrowded prison system have voted to stay off the job, starting October 2, if the State follows up with plans to lay off uniformed officers.

Unions representing 5,000 corrections officers, plus unions representing lieutenants and captains, have approved a call for job actions if layoffs take effect or if continuing talks with the Florio administration break down, according to union leaders.

Thomas Little, president of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association, Local 105, said his membership is prepared to stay out of the State's 14 prison facilities beginning October 2. This is the date when a majority of the more than 2,000 state workers slated for layoffs are to be let go.

Computer Taken from Car

Township police reported the theft of a $3,000 Compaq computer from the front seat of a car parked last week in the rear lot at the Rusty Scupper Restaurant on Alexander Street.

Several other items were left undisturbed in the car, Lt. Mario Musso reported. Although the victim, a resident of Titusville, told police that he had locked his car, Lt. Musso said police found no evidence of any forced entry.

A Dodge Caravan was also entered overnight last week while it was parked in the drive of its Edgerstone Road owner. Taken from the interior was a large, red fanny pack containing a Minolta camera and lens, a wide angle lens, a zoom lens, a flash bar, three filters and two rolls of slide film. Combined value: $558.

The owner told police he had locked his van but came out in the morning to discover the driver's door unlocked. Again — no sign of a forced entry.

Two Youths Charged In Shoplifting Attempt

An 18-year-old Township youth and a 16-year-old Hamilton Township juvenile have both been charged with shoplifting, following an incident Sunday at The Nickel store in the Princeton Shopping Center.

According to police, the pair had been trying on various jackets, and, as they attempted to exit, they tripped the store's sensor alarm.

One employee ran outside after the suspects and followed them to a bus stop. A second employee called police at 6:30 and checked the area near the store. Two jackets taken from the store worth a combined $270 were found discarded near a dumpster.

Police arrested the suspects at the bus stop and transported them to headquarters. They charged George F. Mayo 3d, of Western Way before releasing him and turned the juvenile over to a relative.

Juveniles were also involved in two minor shopliftings last week on Nassau Street.

A 16-year-old from West Windsor was stopped as he was leaving the Sam Goody record store, after an employee had observed him acting suspiciously near a display case and noticed a bulge in his pants pocket.

Police found a $16 compact disc in his possession. They later released him from headquarters to the custody of his mother, pending further juvenile action.

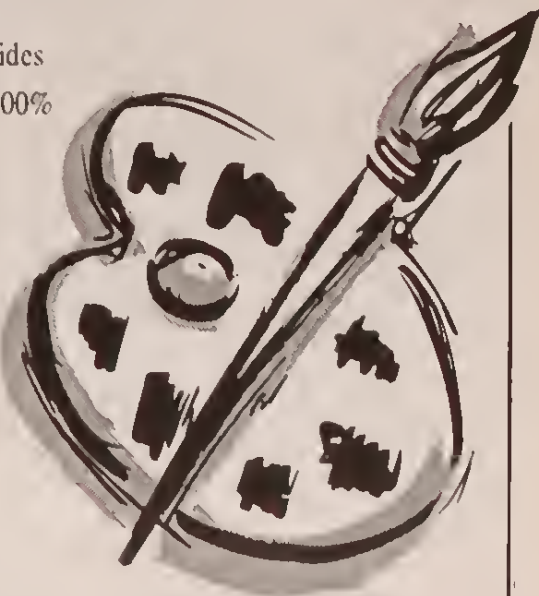

A day later on Thursday, a 13-year-old, visiting with his parents from Maryland, shoplifted a $3 container of itching powder and a $1.50 container of herbal powder from the E.N. Lodge toy store.

Route 1 Widening

The Department of Transportation will hold a public information center this Wednesday, August 19, to discuss construction of a third travel lane on Route 1 in West Windsor and Plainsboro.

The information center will be held between 3 and 7 in the West Windsor Township Court Room, 271 Clarksville Road, Princeton Junction.

The project consists of the reconstruction of the roadway shoulders between Washington Road and Princeton-Plainsboro Road to provide a third travel lane in each direction.

Project plans will be available for public review and NJDOT staff will be available to answer questions on an informal basis.

For further information call Alexander Brown, Area Coordinator, NJDOT Bureau of Community Involvement, at 530-2110.

Store Owner Fined $50 In Borough Court Monday

In Borough Court Monday, Keith Lachapelle, 31, of Doylestown, Pa., owner of the Knits & Pieces Store, 56 Nassau Street, was fined $50 on a disorderly person summons.

In June, Mr. Lachapelle had been issued the summons by police after he grabbed a pen from the hand of meter maid Darlene Sheetz, as she was writing him a ticket for parking his car in a no-parking-from-here-to-corner zone. At the time, Mr. Lachapelle was unloading sweaters into his store which is located at the corner of Palmer Square in the old Skirm's Smoke Shop site.

In court, Mr. Lachapelle's lawyer, in asking for leniency, described his client's act to Judge Russell W. Annich Jr. as an "aberration" and he added, "He'll never be before you again."

Harriet Cohen, 1 Ivy Glen Drive, Lawrenceville, was fined $75 and $50 to the Violent Crime Compensation Board for shoplifting.

In traffic court, Terrance M. Nelson, 31 Academy Street, Kingston, was fined $65 for improper passing, and $30, no license or registration in possession. Raymond B. Basora, Castleton Road, paid $215 for an open container of alcohol in his car.

Fined $75 each were Charles M. Allen, 183 Linden Lane, improper turn, and Gerald Faulhaber Jr., 55 E. Shrewsbury Place, West Windsor, speeding.

In Township court last week, Jeanne D. Morris, 105 Washington Road, Rocky Hill, was fined $75 for a stop sign violation.

Car Windows Broken; BB Pellets Suspected

Four windows of a 1982 Mercury station wagon were broken last week and police believe they know how it was done: Ptl. Sean Reed found a flattened BB pellet at the scene.

The car was parked overnight at the victim's residence on Russell Road. Replacement cost for the windows is estimated to be $900. A radio antenna on a second car at the same location, a red Mazda, was bent, police said.

$1,700 Golf Clubs Missing

Earlier this month, after a Skillman resident had played a round of golf at the Springdale Club, he left his $1,700 set of clubs outside the club house.

As he was driving home, he realized what he had done. Upon his return, however, he found the pro shop closed, his clubs were not there. After checking with employees and with other players, he still could not locate the clubs. The victim reported the incident to police a few days later.

A 34-by-50-inch flag with a large, black and white cow's head on a blue field, valued at $125, was stolen Friday from a Cherry Hill Road residence where it had been secured to a tree. Police said the thief removed a bolt and nut which held the flag and pole in place.

In one of two bike thefts reported by police last week, a boy's BMX bike valued at $89 was taken Friday from an unlocked garage on Birch Avenue. During the morning hours Thursday, a dark blue mountain bike, locked to itself, was taken from Spelman Hall on the University campus. It is valued at $250.

Flower-Eater Is Charged With Criminal Mischief
In another one of those "only in Princeton" incidents, a Ewing Street resident has been charged by Borough police with criminal mischief after he created a disturbance, part of which consisted of uprooting flowers from a flower bed and eating them.
Police said the resident, Pedro Elias, 50, who is scheduled to appear in Borough court August 31, appeared to be intoxicated.
According to Chief Thomas Michaud, police responded to an 8:40 call Friday evening from a Harrison Street resident reporting a disturbance. When they arrived, they found a very irate, belligerent man who was yanking on a rear screen door. As they approached, the door latch broke.
Further investigation revealed, Chief Michaud said, that the home owner had first seen the suspect uprooting flowers and eating them. When the owner came out to confront him, the suspect appeared to him to be intoxicated and hostile. While the owner was inside calling the police, the suspect tried to force

Township Roadwork Updated

The repaving of South Harrison Street from Prospect Avenue to the Harrison Street bridge over Lake Carnegie began this week, courtesy of Mercer County.

Originally this work was scheduled to begin the week of August 31, after the repaving of Rosedale Road from Province Line Road to Carter Road and the repaving of Elm Road from Rosedale to Route 206 had been completed. All are county-owned roads and these are county projects.

After a conference with Princeton Shopping Center management and Township Engineer Robert V. Kiser, Mercer County officials agreed to move up the repaving of South Harrison Street so that it would not interfere with the opening of a big new food store at Princeton Shopping Center. Rosedale Road repaving is nearly complete, and Elm Road will now be done after South Harrison Street is completed.

Mr. Kiser says the milling and repaving of South Harrison Street could take five working days, weather permitting. Thus it could be completed early next week, or at the latest by Friday, August 28.

Meanwhile the Township's reconstruction of Stuart Road from The Great Road to Hardy Drive is moving along satisfactorily. However, the contractor, Vie-Su Leasing, was not able to begin work on Stuart Road as soon as it anticipated because of the delay in finishing the Alexander Street reconstruction.

The original date for completion of Stuart Road was to have been August 22, this Saturday; however Mr. Kiser expects that the contractor will request an extension without penalty. He says he is hoping Stuart Road will be completed by Labor Day, September 7.

The 210-foot section of the Mountain Avenue bikepath that was recently approved for completion will be constructed after Labor Day, Mr. Kiser says.

He also reports that the Township's 1992 oil and chip program designed to halt deterioration of roads and postpone the need of full reconstruction will begin Monday. Eight roads will receive the oil and chip application.

They are Carnegie Road, Gulick Road, Herrontown Circle, and Wheatshaf Lane, the entire length of each; Herrontown Road from River Road to Caldwell Drive; Broadripple Drive, from Magnolia Lane to Overbrook Drive; Magnolia Lane, from Overbrook to just south of Broadripple Drive; and Overbrook Drive from Snowden Lane to Dodds Lane.

Mr. Kiser also reports that a bad curve on Cherry Valley Road between The Great Road and Province Line Road will be made safer through a one-day repaving of this curve that will elevate the roadway and bank it in the right direction. Mercer County will undertake this project, with Princeton Township paying for the paving material at an estimated cost of about $10,000.

New Ethiopian Patriarch Was Exile in Princeton

Bishop Abuna Paulos, the quiet, black-robed Ethiopian priest who made Princeton his home for the past ten years while he was in exile from his homeland, was consecrated as patriarch of the Ethiopian Orthodox Church July 12 in ceremonies at Trinity Cathedral in Addis Ababa. As patriarch, he is the spiritual leader of the world's 37 million Ethiopian Orthodox Christians.

Bishop Paulos first came to Princeton in 1970 to study for a master of theology degree at the Seminary. He returned to Ethiopia to become the bishop of ecumenical and social affairs and serve as private secretary to the former patriarch. When the Marxist government came to power in 1974, he was imprisoned without trial for seven years. On his release, with international help from the World Council of Churches and then-Princeton Seminary president James McCord, he escaped his country and came to Princeton.

For the last decade, while earning his Ph.D. in church history at the Seminary, he has started churches for Ethiopian

COUSINS MEET: Alexander "Sasha" Velikovsky, left, of Moscow, and Rafael Sharon, of Princeton, reconstruct their family tree.

Princeton Family Enjoys Reunion with Cousin

It took the effort of two generations of a Princeton family and a phone call from a 37-year-old Muscovite director to realize — at least through descendants — one of Immanuel Velikovsky's last hopes.

Dr. Velikovsky, the controversial scholar, author of "Worlds in Collision" and Princeton resident, who died in 1979, had often told his daughter and son-in-law he wished he could contact the relatives he had not seen since he fled Russia in 1918.

Although the only communication before his death was a letter from one of his brothers, his family finally met up with a Russian Velikovsky.

Deer Path residents Ruth and Sidney Sharon, Dr. Velikovsky's daughter and son-in-law, recalled the phone call from Alexander "Sasha" Velikovsky, a Moscow resident who directs plays.

"It was one of the happiest moments of my life," said Mrs. Sharon.

Her son, Rafael, a Princeton architect, began poring over his grandfather's as-yet unpublished autobiography for clues as to how Sasha might be related. His wife, Lorna, pieced together names from the autobiography and their possible placement in the family tree. Mrs. Sharon's daughter, Naomi Mitchell, made plans for a trip to Princeton from her Massachusetts home. Another daughter, Carmel Sharon, who teaches at Littlebrook School, lent further assistance.

Sent a Limousine

A few days later, the Sharons sent a limousine to pick up Sasha in New York and bring him to Princeton. Sasha had earlier been at a playwrights' conference in Connecticut.

"When Sasha came in, I gave him a big hug, which I don't usually do when I meet someone," said Mrs. Sharon, a psychoanalyst who practices in New York.

Sasha said he was struck by the fact that he and the Sharons could speak "as if there were not these years. Very simple, as if we know each other for many years."

During the five-hour family reunion, the conversation never stopped. Sasha and Rafael — newly acquainted distant cousins — sat next to one another at Mrs. Sharon's dining table and sorted through a cardboard box filled with family photographs. They also charted their family line and discovered their two grandfathers were first cousins, both from Vitebsk.

Sasha also related the story of how his father, Samari Velikovsky, a Russian scientist and philosopher, saw Immanuel Velikovsky at a conference in France in the late 1960s. Someone asked him if they were related.

"But the time was very difficult and a lot of people controlled my father," said Sasha, noting that the KGB escorted his father to the conference and only allowed him to follow a certain program. That program did not include a conversation with Immanuel.

"The Same Spirit"

Sasha remembered his father returning home and telling of Immanuel. "He said he very much looked like a Velikovsky," said Sasha, and acted like a Velikovsky ... the same spirit."

More than 20 years later, at the playwrights' conference in Connecticut, Sasha was asked if he was related to Immanuel Velikovsky. It was a question that had also been posed to him a few years earlier, when he visited Israel, where Immanuel Velikovsky had at one time lived.

"When I came here to America, I heard once more and once more and once more — Velikovsky — is he my relative or not? And I said, 'I don't know. I don't know, really,'" said Sasha.

A Hollywood producer at the conference said he would help Sasha find out. The publisher of Immanuel Velikovsky supplied the producer with Mrs. Sharon's phone number in Princeton.

The reunion also brought out recollections about Immanuel Velikovsky.

"What strikes me in memory of my father-in-law is how often he stated he regretted not having made contact with his brothers," said Sidney Sharon.

Mrs. Sharon added that her father wished he had been able to convince his brothers to escape Russia when he did. Once he asked someone who was visiting Russia to look up his brothers. When the visitor inquired if one of the brothers was related to Immanuel, the brother replied, "I have no brother." The Iron Curtain was then as solid as steel.

Finally, in the 1970s, Immanuel received a letter from one of his brothers. By the time he responded, his brother had died.

"There was never any contact. This is the first time. I only wish my grandfather was here," said Rafael.

Rider College Announces Fall Lunch Box Lectures

The Rider College School for Continuing Studies has announced its line-up for the fall Lunch Box lecture series.

The four free lectures, each on a different topic and presented by Rider faculty members, will be held on Wednesdays, from noon to 1 p.m. in Room 245 of Rider's Student Center. Audience members are invited to bring a lunch; coffee and tea will be provided.

"The Columbian Exchange," a discussion of the results of Christopher Columbus' voyages, will be presented by Dr. Susan Klepp, associate professor of history, on October 14.

Dr. Mary Jo Hall, associate professor of geosciences, will discuss "Storm Erosion Along the Shore," on October 21. During the winter of 1991-92 the New Jersey shoreline experienced several major storms resulting in sand loss along the beaches. Dr. Hall will discuss the results of these storms and their impact on the New Jersey shore.

"Election '92, Politics, Protest, and Perot," will be presented on October 28 by Dr. David Rebovich, associate professor of political science and public affairs columnist for The Trenton Times.

At the final lunch, Dr. Richard Swain, associate professor of fine arts, will present "This Is the Party That Was!" in which he will describe his reconstruction of a party given for Louis XIV of France.

Is Route 92 Buildable? New Studies Are Planned

The executive director of the New Jersey Turnpike Authority told a group of Plainsboro residents on Monday night that the Authority should know in two years whether Route 92 between Exit 8-A on the Turnpike and Route 1 is "buildable or not buildable."

Legislation passed by the New Jersey Legislature last January transferred jurisdiction for this section of Route 92 from the state Department of Transportation to the Turnpike Authority. The proposed highway would link Exit 8A in Monroe Township to Route 1 near Ridge Road in South Brunswick and possibly connect with Route 27 in South Brunswick. A further extension of the highway from Route 27 to Route 206 has been abandoned by the DOT because of environmental constraints and the objections of Princeton and Montgomery Townships.

Plainsboro residents are now objecting to Route 92 going through their municipality. Although a final alignment for the highway between Exit 8A of the Turnpike and Route 1 has not been determined, preliminary plans show the roadway cutting through the northern tip of Plainsboro, crossing the Walker Gordon and Turkey Island Corp. property and skirting the Princeton Collection development before meeting up with Ridge Road at Route 1. The estimated cost is said to be $155 million.

Speaking at a meeting of the Plainsboro Planning Board's Master Plan Subcommittee on Monday, Turnpike Authority Executive Director Donald Watson said the Authority will begin selecting consultants

Route 1 Motorists Alert

Construction started this week on a pair of Route 1 widening projects in West Windsor and Plainsboro that will require closing rush hour shoulder lanes and nighttime lane closings.

Both projects are part of a long-term improvement plan to ease traffic congestion on Route 1 between Trenton and New Brunswick. Two lanes of traffic will be maintained in both directions through the construction zones during morning and evening rush hours to minimize the impact on motorists.

The two projects include:

- Widening and repaving a one-mile section of Route 1 between Washington Road in West Windsor and Princeton-Plainsboro Road in Plainsboro to permanently add a third lane in each direction. A $1.7 million contract was awarded to Crisdel Group, Inc. of South Plainfield for the project, which will feature the experimental use of a long-life asphalt mix developed in Germany.
- Adding a third lane on Route 1 southbound between Emmons Road and Nassau Park in West Windsor. The half-mile project is being financed and contracted by DKM Construction Co. as part of its Windsor Green development.

The first project will begin with reconstruction of the shoulders to prepare them for use as permanent travel lanes. The shoulders have been used as temporary third lanes during rush hour. Concrete barriers will separate road crews from traffic. As part of the initial work, the Harrison Street and Fisher Place interchanges will each have to be closed in traffic for one night.

The closings will be announced in advance by the DOT.

During the next phase, which is tentatively scheduled to begin Monday, August 24, resurfacing work will be performed between the hours of 8 p.m. and 5 a.m. One lane of traffic will be maintained through the work zone during the night resurfacing. Both lanes will be reopened to traffic by the morning rush hour.

Because the shoulders will be closed during rush hour, the DOT will have a tow truck permanently stationed at the construction site to immediately remove any vehicle that breaks down. In addition, electronic message boards will be in place updating motorists on the nighttime lane closings.

The traffic restrictions are to end by mid-November and the entire project is to conclude in January.

The DKM project also involves the conversion of a shoulder into a new third travel lane. Southbound traffic through the work zone will be restricted to one lane between the hours of 9 p.m. and 5 a.m. The project is to conclude October 9.

"Our premise going into this is that the project is justifiable and that the alignment has merit," Mr. Watson said. "Once we complete our studies in '94 we will report to the Turnpike Commissioners whether or not the project is buildable. If our report says it is not buildable then that will be the end of it. After 30 years on one drawing board or another, it will be dead."

"For some that will be a joyous occasion and for others, not," he remarked.

Plainsboro is expected to hire a consultant next month to study the traffic impact of Route 92. The Plainsboro Planning Board will make a recommendation to the Township Committee by November 15 on the need for Route 92. The Turnpike Authority has asked the Committee to take an official position on the project by the end of the year.

In outlining a timetable for the project Mr. Watson gave 1995 as the earliest date for the Authority to float a bond issue for construction. He said the Authority would weigh input from affected communities as well as traffic and environmental impacts and the impact on fiscal and property value of local residents.

that the Princeton Health Department had issued a notice to the property owner, Maria Shamy, and to the bank, giving them five days in which to do maintenance before the Township Public Works Department would be called in to do it. The costs would be assessed to the owner or a lien for the amount would be placed on the property through the office of the Township attorney.

There continues to be some question as to who is actually responsible for the property. Arthur Suckewer, a Township resident who may be interested in purchasing the property, called TOWN TOPICS Tuesday with that very question. When Mr. Suckewer called Chemical Bank's Mortgage Department, he was told to call the attorney, Bruce Atkinson, who is — or was — the court-appointed trustee of the assets in the bankruptcy proceedings which Maria Shamy initiated several months after Chemical Bank began foreclosure proceedings for not having received mortgage payments.

When Mr. Suckewer called Mr. Atkinson's office in Red Bank, he was told Mr. Atkinson no longer is involved in Mrs. Shamy's affairs.

Ms. Taylor said Monday that Chemical Bank wants to complete foreclosure so that the property can be sold. She acknowledged that bankruptcy proceedings can stretch out the process and said that bankruptcy is frequently invoked by property owners to forestall the sale of their property.

New Sweat Suits Sought For Victims of Rape

The YWCA of Trenton's Rape Crisis Program (RCP) is in need of new, unused, sweat suits for victims of rape.

One of the services provided by this program is accompaniment of victims to the hospital for examinations to ensure their health and to collect evidence that can be used later in court. The process often requires keeping a victim's clothing as part of the evidence. Because victims are brought directly to the hospital following the report of the assault, they are unable to bring extra clothing with them. The hospital can only provide a paper scrub suit for victims to wear home.

The YWCA Rape Crisis Program provides sweat suits to victims, which offer more security and less embarrassment after an extremely traumatic, painful experience. In addition, the sweat suit provides warmth, an important component because victims of trauma are frequently cold and shivering after an assault.

Because there are no longer sufficient funds with which to purchase sweat suits, the RCP is requesting assistance from the community.

The sweat suits should be new and unused, size large, and of a dark color. They may be brought to the YWCA of Trenton, 140 East Hanover Street, Trenton, weekdays between 8:30 a.m. and 8 p.m.

"Crimes of the Heart" Offers Laughter in the Face of Despair

Simple, poignant wisdom and wild humor, ranging from broad to black in tone, abound in Beth Henley's Pulitzer Prize-winning Crimes of the Heart, playing at Murray Theater on the Princeton University campus over the next two weekends.

"It's an important human need to talk about our lives," one of the three eccentric McGrath sisters remarks early in the play, and with lives like theirs to talk about, the dialogue and action are guaranteed to surprise and fascinate. The "crimes" of the title are the results of the passions that betray Lenny, Meg and Babe, but it is those same "crimes" that set off the bizarre and farcical events of the play and win our laughter and affection for the sisters and their wacky, troubled world in Hazlehurst, Mississippi.

The story begins with oldest sister Lenny, age 30 and marriage prospects dwindling, awaiting news of her dying granddaddy. Meg, 27, arrives back in town after a failed singing career in Los Angeles; while Babe, 24, is out of jail on bail after shooting her lawyer husband in the stomach "cause I didn't like his looks." As the three sisters reunite to lend each other strength and a large dose of love and humor, the plot moves with reckless abandon, both backwards and forwards in time.

News of the THEATRES

The grim, even grotesque details of past and present interweave, as we learn about the girls' cold, unkind father, who left, and their sad, lonely mother, who committed suicide and took the family cat with her. During the less than 24-hour span of the play's plot, all three sisters become increasingly embroiled in their own "crimes of the heart," but the power of sisterhood, the solace of laughter and the affirmation of life prevail in this 1981 masterpiece.

Capable Ensemble

The six-member cast in this all-student (or recent-student) Princeton Summer Theater production is a capable, well-rehearsed ensemble, with the three principals especially effective in creating a close-textured mutual rapport — rich in both conflict and compassion.

Adelle Bruni as Meg injects a shot of adrenalin into the production with her entrance in the middle of the first act. She is tough, confident, outspoken and funny, a scandal to the townspeople of Hazlehurst. The strongest and most effectively cast of the three sisters, Ms. Bruni at times even threatens to tilt the balance and make this Meg's play, at the expense of the characters of Lenny and Babe.

As Lenny, facing fears of spinsterhood and the nervousness of re-establishing contact with the one man she has ever loved, Emily Jacobs creates an interesting and convincing contrast to the more flamboyant characters around her.

Melinda Hamilton as Babe Botrelle, the youngest and craziest of the three sisters, is perhaps the least felicitously cast. In a part created by Mary Beth Hurt on stage and played by Sissy Spacek in a movie version (which also featured Jessica Lange and Diane Keaton), Ms. Hamilton, a capable and experienced young actress, may have stepped into a role — and perhaps also a world — that is wild, weird and fierce beyond her expectations. If ever a character epitomized the term "loose cannon," Babe is it, but Ms. Hamilton seems a bit too conventional, too restrained, too somber for the volatile vivacity of Babe Botrelle.

THREE SISTERS, AMERICAN STYLE: Emily Jacobs (left), Melinda Hamilton, and Adelle Bruni play the wild McGrath sisters in Princeton Summer Theatre's "Crimes of the Heart."

Scorching Opinions

As Chick Boyle, the McGrath's catty cousin, Melissa Friedman's characterization is strong, funny and most appropriately repugnant.

Jerry Williams as Doc Porter, a shy, long-time suitor of Meg, now married with two children, starts out a bit shakily, but picks up confidence and focus as the evening rolls on, and plays an important and successful scene with Meg in the second act. Peter Bloser, as Babe's young and amorous lawyer Barnette Lloyd, contributes a creditable and competent performance.

Rebecca Erwin, a Princeton University senior, has directed with taste and integrity, and she has rehearsed the ensemble with care and thoroughness. The set design, by Michael Sattler, is a functional, effective, nicely detailed and realistic depiction of the McGrath kitchen for all three acts.

"Babe, we've just got to learn how to get through these real bad days here," Meg tells her sister as they face yet another misfortune near the end of the third act. And in response to that need is perhaps where Crimes of the Heart — with its laughter in the face of despair, its ringing affirmation of life in the midst of death and its vibrant insistence on a bright future no matter what the past — offers its most satisfying rewards.

The Mississippi accents here are not always consistent or precise, the black humor occasionally comes out more tragic and less humorous than it might, and the Princeton Summer Theater actors must all contend with roles for which they are still a few years too young. The production, however, is appropriately full of youthful energy, strange and deep emotions and an astonishing, poignant and hilarious vision of life.

Crimes of the Heart, Princeton Summer Theater's final show of the season, will play at the Murray Theater at 8 p.m., August 20 to 23 and 27 to 29, with an additional matinee on Sunday, August 23, at 2 p.m. Call 258-4950 for further information and reservations.

Performing Arts Program For Youth Has Openings

Center Stage, a performing arts program which creates theatre for kids by kids, is accepting enrollment for its fall classes for children in grades four through nine. Classes begin September 8.

Center Stage is devoted to bringing out the natural performer in every child, developing their skills and enabling them to experience the thrill of performing before an audience.

Classes for grades four, five and six use improvisation and theatre games to explore characters and situations. Emphasis is on learning to concentrate and becoming comfortable with physical expression through such circus performing arts as clowning, slapstick, pratfalls, juggling, masks and pantomime. The class culminates in a public presentation.

Classes for grades seven, eight and nine explore a variety of characters and situations using a more formal, structured approach. Performers are given more responsibility as stage actors and/or film makers. The technical aspects of the performing arts are introduced through video filmmaking by composing commercials and short films. The class culminates in a public presentation.

Classes meet after school and on Saturday on the campus of Princeton Day School. For additional information and a brochure, call co-directors Thomas von Oehsen or Ev Therrien at 466-4755.

Summer Cinema Films At Kresge Auditorium

McCart Theatre's annual Summer Cinema season at Kresge Auditorium continues this Wednesday and Thursday with La Femme Nikita and The Nasty Girl.

La Femme Nikita, which was 1991's top-grossing foreign language film, is a smart, stylish, psycho-romantic thriller from director Luc Besson, combining hip violence, punk anomie, lavish settings and an old-fashioned paean to the power of love. It stars his wife, Anne Parillaud, as Nikita, a seemingly incorrigible criminal who is re-programmed by a government agency into a political killer — a version of the Pygmalion legend for our violent times.

The evening's co-feature, The Nasty Girl, is a fiction film inspired by fact, the true story of Anja Elisabeth Rosmus, a young German historian who set out to learn what happened in her hometown of Passau during the Third Reich. In director Michael Verhoeven's fictional adaptation, schoolgirl Sonja (Lena Stolze) enjoys the love and respect of her picturesque Bavarian town until she decides to enter an essay competition with "My Town During the Third Reich."

The Summer Cinema double feature for Friday through Sunday will be two eye-opening documentaries, Truth or Dare and Paris Is Burning.

Truth or Dare is Madonna's dishy, down and dirty documentary, which is at once a clever, brazen self-portrait, an ingeniously contrived extension of her public personality, and a studied glimpse into her private side. But the most fascinating thing about this behind-the-scenes no-holds-barred document of her 1990 Blond Ambition concert tour is her Pirandellian gift for revealing everything and nothing simultaneously. The film alternates backstage scenes shot in black and white, cinema-verite style, with stunning concert footage shot in color with multiple cameras.

The evening's co-feature, Paris Is Burning, was one of the major scandals of this year's Academy Awards when it failed to even be nominated in the Best Feature-Length Documentary category.

Jenny Livingston's exhilarating mind-stretching movie is about style, survival and self-delusion, and it also raises basic questions about race, class and gender. Its subject is black and Hispanic drag queens, the posturing acrobatic dancing called "voguing," and the drag balls of East Harlem.

A Gus Van Sant Jr. double-feature will be shown next when Summer Cinema presents My Own Private Idaho and Drugstore Cowboy Tuesday through Thursday, August 25 through 27.

Summer Cinema's mini-discount book — priced at $20 for five single evening admissions — is available, at both the McCart Theatre box office and at Kresge Auditorium at show time. Single evening admission is $5 and is on sale one-half hour prior to show time, subject to availability.

For more information, call the McCart Theatre box office at 683-8000.

ALL THE NEWS FROM HOME: A TOWN TOPICS subscription for your college-bound son or daughter is only $15 for nine months. Call 924-2200.

Theatres

"Pirates of Penzance" At Open Air Theatre

The Princeton Opera will present Gilbert & Sullivan's rollicking musical comedy, The Pirates of Penzance at the Open Air Theatre in Washington Crossing State Park. The performance dates are Thursday through Saturday, August 20 to 22, and Wednesday through Saturday, August 26 to 29, and begin at 8:30 p.m.

The orchestra and singers will be under the baton of Steve Ryan. A graduate of Westminster Choir College, Mr. Ryan appeared with the Princeton Opera last year in Washington Crossing State Park as Billy Bigelow in Carousel. He has been musical director for numerous area musicals.

The stage director is Lori Bales, who currently works for the Hal Prince Organization.

Pirates pokes fun at Victorian mores, the British army, the police and the nobility. The sub-title for the operetta is The Slave of Duty, which refers to Frederick, a dutiful young man who, while a lad, was accidentally apprenticed to a band of inept pirates until his 21st birthday.

The Pirates of Penzance contains some of Gilbert & Sullivan's funniest and most memorable songs, including the lilting "Poor Wand'ring One"; the famous patter song, "I Am the Very Model of a Modern Major General" and the rousing chorus "Ta-Ran-Ta-Ra." Pirates also contains the tune that is better-known to the world as "Hail, Hail the Gang's All Here!"

Tickets range from $6 to $7.50. For information call 737-1826.

Auditions for Musical

Class Act Productions will hold open auditions Monday and Tuesday from 7 to 10 p.m. each evening at Mill Hill Playhouse, Front and Montgomery streets, Trenton, for its holiday musical, the fairy tale Once Upon a Mattress, also known as The Princess and the Pea.

Mattress will be directed by Donna A. Lee with Jeanne LaPolla as musical director. Mattress will run November 6 to 8, 13 to 15, and 20 to 22. Auditioners should come prepared with sheet music to their song and wear comfortable clothes. No one under age 13 need audition.

There are eight principals and numerous chorus parts. Rehearsals will start September 13 and will be held three nights a week.

'Phantom of the Opera' At Bucks Co. Playhouse

Phantom of the Opera will return to the Bucks County Playhouse from August 19 through 30. The Yeston-Kopit version, which includes the chandelier crash, will be staged.

The same cast will return for this run as performed in the last run. William Paul Michals, who was seen as Don Quixote in this season's production of Mon of La Mancha, will recreate the role of the Phantom. Michele Golden, who portrayed the ingenue, Christine, in the first run, will again play the opera singer who captures the Phantom's heart.

Performances are Wednesday through Friday at 8:30; Saturday at 5 and 9; and Sunday at 7. Matinees are on Wednesday and Thursday at 2.

Ticket prices are $17 for all performances except on Saturday at 5, which is $19, and Saturday at 9, which is $20. For information and reservations, call the box office at (215) 862-2041.

Two Parts Theater Co. Sets Season at Forbes

Two Parts Theater Company will begin its second season with the drama Saved by Edward Bond.

Founded last year by co-producing artistic directors Loretta Greco and Paul Zablocki, the company strives to create theater which courageously explores contemporary themes. In keeping with the goal of providing an alternative theater experience for all members of the Princeton community and surrounding communities, a free admission policy has been established. Performances will be Thursday through Sunday at Forbes College Black Box Theatre on Alexander Street.

Saved traces the lives of the British working class in South London in the early 1960s as the characters struggle to make sense out of the amoral world they find themselves thrust into. Originally produced in London in 1965, Saved had audiences and critics debating its meaning and purpose for years after its initial run.

Loretta Greco will direct. Ms. Greco calls Saved "an important theatrical piece" and says "Its display of British Post World War II numbness sadly mirrors America's cultural bankruptcy in the post-Reagan glory days."

Also scheduled for the remainder of the season are a Christmastime workshop of Maurice Maeterlinck's The Blue Bird, directed by Artist in Residence, Philip Creech; the continuation of the Cafe Reading Series; and an original play in the spring to be written and directed by Paul Zablocki about one man's frightening ascent to power as he espouses white supremacy as the means to save the nation.

THE ROSE

We've often heard the saying "A rose is a rose is a rose," but as we shall see, that is not always the case. There are a number of different varieties from which to pick for your garden. Here are a few samples that may be of interest to you.

CLIMBING ROSES — Cultivars that can be trained to grow up a trellis, arbor or building. There are several classes: climbing hybrid tea, hybrid bracteata, large flowered climbers, ramblers and wichuraiana climbers.

SHRUB ROSES — This is a catch all class of cultivars that do not belong with either the old garden roses or any of the more modern classes. Subclasses included in this group are: eglantine, hybrid musk, hybrid rugosa, polyantha and shrub roses.

FLORIBUNDAS — A modern variety of roses, the result of crossing hybrid teas with polyanthas. They typically may have many blooms per stem.

GRANDIFLORAS — Another modern group, the grandiflora class only came into being in the mid-50's; it was established for the cultivar Queen Elizabeth, which was seen as the first of a class of large-flowered, abundantly blooming roses.

HYBRID TEAS — This is the most popular class of roses of all. Many familiar long stemmed varieties are included here, in a very wide range of colors.

OLD GARDEN ROSES — In cultivation since 1867, these roses include the following classes: alba, Bourbon, centifolia, China, damask, gallica, hybrid perpetual, moss, Noisette, Portland and tea.

MINIATURE ROSES — Another popular group, the miniatures look like their larger relatives in every way except for size. Many will grow well in containers; some do well indoors.

Not only are there a multitude of roses to choose from, but do keep in mind that roses need at least six hours of sunlight each day. If there is a choice of morning or afternoon sun, it is better to choose the afternoon shade. Morning shade increases the possibility of mildew and black spot on the bush because it takes longer for the morning dew to dry. Afternoon shade helps protect the plants from too much summer heat, helping the growth of the plants and retarding the drying out of the soil. As the trees in your garden grow, they will create more shade, so bear this in mind when you plant roses. Start out on a small scale with roses — never more than a dozen rose bushes. This will allow the novice to decide if you really want to grow roses at all.

Whether you are a rose gardener or a vegetable gardener, do call the professionals at WOODWINDS (924-3500) for consultation regarding all green growing things!!!

POPULAR MUSIC HIS FORTE: Mike Buglio, founder and musical director of the New Jersey Pops, will be performing with the Pops orchestra on Saturday, September 19, at American Cyanamid to benefit the 4-H Development Fund.

MUSIC

Pops Concert to Benefit New Jersey 4-H Program

"A Family Evening Under the Stars with the New Jersey Pops" will be held Saturday, September 19, at American Cyanamid's Agricultural Research Division in Princeton. The concert begins at 7:30 and proceeds go toward enhancing New Jersey 4-H programs, which serve youth ages 7 to 19.

The grounds will be open to the public at 5, when 4-H clubs from throughout the state will put on demonstrations and present programs in which they are involved. There will be plenty of space on the west lawn, where the concert will be held, to spread out a blanket or set up folding chairs.

The New Jersey Pops will perform musical selections from Beethoven to the Beatles. The evening will end with a fireworks display performed as the musicians play Tchaikovsky's 1812 Overture.

For tickets, call 1-800-234-TKTS Monday to Friday, 8:30 to 4:30. Adult tickets are $8 ($10 at the door). Children 16 and under are admitted free.

Special tickets, which include a dessert buffet with the conductor after the concert, are available at $25 each. Additional information is available through the Mercer County agricultural extension office.

Openings Are Available In Community Orchestra

Barbara Barstow, director of the Westminster Community Orchestra, is holding hearings for new members. Places are available in all string sections and in some woodwind sections.

The Westminster Community Orchestra's seventh season promises to be an exciting one. The orchestra will perform at least six concerts, the first of which will be Peter vs. the Wolf, an adaptation of the Prokofiev classic, as part of the Children's Concert Series.

The orchestra will also perform a holiday concert at Richardson Auditorium in association with the Raritan Valley Chorus on December 16, and an AIDS Benefit Concert on March 20 at Richardson.

Under Ms. Barstow's direction, the Westminster Community Orchestra has given more than 25 public performances in and around the Princeton area in the past seven years. The 60-piece orchestra is composed primarily of amateur musicians from 21 towns in central New Jersey and eastern Pennsylvania.

Ms. Barstow will be available for hearings Wednesday, September 2 and 9, from 6 to 8:30 p.m. at Westminster Conservatory on the campus of Westminster Choir College, the School of Music of Rider College. Other hearing times can be arranged by calling the Conservatory at 921-7104, extension 260.

Rehearsal begins Wednesday, September 16, in the Playhouse on the Westminster campus.

Free Concert Saturday By Bigger Thomas Band

Weather permitting, the Princeton Shopping Center will present a free concert Saturday from noon to 2 in the courtyard.

Bigger Thomas, a band of eight members whose music has its roots in the Jamaican ska, music of the 60s, the predecessor of reggae, will perform. Formed in 1989 by guitarist Steve Parker and bassist Marc Wasserman, the current band includes Kevin Shields and Sean Moore (trumpets), Michael Bailey (trombone), guest saxophone Dave Homan, drummer John Dibianco, and lead vocal/keyboardist Jim Allington.

Based in the Princeton/New Brunswick area, the band has performed throughout the East Coast and Canada with recording acts such as Burning Spear, Yellowman, Jimmy Cliff, Skatalites, KRS 1 and Boogie Down Productions.

While initially influenced by ska, the band's music has grown to include other Third World music, such as reggae, calypso, and world beat. These genres are evident in their latest recording, M'Boy Y'Know, a six-song EP which includes a dancehall version of the "Archies" classic Sugar, Sugar.

Free Opera Concert

To commemorate the 500th anniversary of Christopher Columbus's discovery of the New World, the Boheme Opera Company will give a free concert Sunday, August 30, at 7 at Mercer County Park in West Windsor. A rain date is tentatively set for Wednesday, September 2 at 7.

The Trenton based Boheme Opera Company is under the direction of Josh Pucciatti. The concert will feature Metropolitan Opera Baritone Vernon Hartman as guest artist and will include selections from The Barber of Seville, I Pagliacci, West Side Story and Porgy and Bess.

Semi-Automatic Rifles Not "Assault Weapons"

To the Editor of Town Topics:

This letter is in response to the erroneous and misleading information contained in a recent TOWN TOPICS news item on August 12, "Assault Weapon Repeal Target of Candidates."

The author as well as Freeholder candidates Worthy and Benchley use the emotionally charged buzzwords "assault weapons" and "high powered" indiscriminately and without regard to correctness. To also completely disregard the facts and position of Trenton Deputy Police Chief Joseph Constance in favor of their own emotional rhetoric would be laughable if it were not for the seriousness of this matter. Would Benchley and Worthy have us believe they are more astute in issues involving assault weapons and firearm related violence than Deputy Chief Constance? I would suggest that the candidates and author brush up on their basic knowledge as to the issue before going public in our local paper.

Facts: "Assault weapons" have been federally banned from private ownership (except for a few carefully screened collectors) for over 50 years and are not the target of repeal. "Assault weapons" are not the rifles in question with regard to repeal bills A-7 and S-700.

"Assault weapons" are not semi-automatic rifles and semi-automatic rifles are not "high powered." "Assault weapons," through slight of words trickery, were re-defined to include most all semi-automatic rifles owned by New Jersey's law abiding fire arm owners (thousands were owned by police officers privately).

This re-definition having taken place during the Democratic controlled state legislature, and it being common knowledge as reported by major newspapers in New Jersey, it has also been reported by major newspapers that this redefinition as well as the "assault weapon ban" itself was highly unpopular with law enforcement in New Jersey, however after being led to believe they would be exempt they remained silent during the heated debates. They too were wrong!!

Redefining basic standards and objects to sway public opinion is dangerous at best and accordingly could be used to change the meaning of the Constitution itself.

The firearm in question is responsible for less than 1% of all firearm related crime in America today (bear in mind this includes such crime capitals as D.C., L.A., N.Y.C., etc.). In New Jersey these rifles were largely owned by police officers privately, and registered law abiding citizens.

Logic as well as most highly regarded criminologists tell us that this ban will have no effect on criminal firearm behavior.

Shopping Center Flowers Are a "Visual Delight"

To the Editor, Town Topics:

As a long time customer of many stores at the Princeton Shopping Center, it is a constant pleasure to walk around and enjoy the visual delight of the manicured lawn and flower border. I understand it was created and is maintained by a man named Cosmo who is tirelessly working but whose attention I have never been able to get to congratulate him on his outstanding contribution to our community.

It is a privilege to ask TOWN TOPICS to publicly commend Cosmo on his special project.

State Employees Praised For Help to Homeowner

To the Editor of Town Topics:

In these economic times when cutbacks seem to be the rule, it is very fashionable to complain of government waste and inefficient government employees. Seldom does one hear praise for the beneficial programs which are run by the government or for the many hard working, dedicated government employees. Let me tell you of one such program and a few of its dedicated employees.

Several years ago, various newspapers around the country ran articles concerning a defective fire retardant-treated plywood which was widely used in the 1980s in the construction of townhouses and condominiums. As stated in the newspaper articles, the plywood through time deteriorates and if not replaced leads to home and roof damage, if not outright roof failure.

The use of the defective plywood was widespread in the eastern United States where repair costs are estimated to be near $2 billion. The number of homes in New Jersey alone containing the plywood runs into the tens of thousands, and repair costs are estimated to be in the tens of millions.

Unfortunately, I happened to live in one of those townhouses with defective plywood. Two years ago an engineering firm which examined my roof estimated that the roof had a useful life of something around 18 months. I was not only faced with a crumbling roof and a costly roof repair, but also the prospect that recovering any costs on my own from the plywood manufacturer or the builder would involve protracted and expensive litigation with the outcome uncertain.

Enabling legislation, NJAC 5:25A, passed recently by the State of New Jersey, came to my rescue. In exchange for signing over to the State of New Jersey my right to sue the manufacturer of the defective plywood, thus providing the State with the means to begin a class action suit, the State reimbursed a substantial portion of the repair costs.

I cannot say enough for the many State employees at the Department of Community Affairs who led me step by step through the various required documentation and forms. They were courteous, helpful and thoroughly professional. As far as the oft-said complaint about government dragging its feet, I started the roof repair documentation work with the State in the beginning of May, 1992. There was a new roof on my home by the third week of June.

Many thanks and hats off to the New Jersey Department of Community Affairs.

The bed your back has been aching for.

For years you've been told that a firm bed is better for your back. Well, in Sweden, the people who make

It has two layers of innersprings instead of the usual one.

The upper layer moulds itself to the contours of your body, allowing your spine to lie straight.

The bottom layer acts as a buffer against harsh movement, and provides firm support.

So come in and try the Dux Bed.

Lie in it; take a nap.

You're going to love it.

Your back will, too.

Lying on a firm bed, the spine is curved the Dux Bed have proven otherwise. They've proven that a firm bed resists, rather than conforms to, the position of Amazingly, of ALL the managers in big league baseball history, only ONE ever won the World Series in each league ... The only manager to do that is Sparky Anderson, who led the Reds to World Series titles in the National League, and the Tigers to a World Series championship in the American League.

In what sport can you win more games than your opponent and still lose? ... In tennis you can win more games and yet, lose the match ... A tennis score of 0-6, 7-5, 7-5 would mean the winning player won 14 games while the losing player won 16 games ... Even though a player lost 16-14 in games, that player would have won the match.

FINANCIAL PLANS should definitely include Long Term Health Insurance IN YOUR OWN HOME.

There have been more than 100 father-son combinations in major league baseball history — but there's now one big league player whose mother played pro baseball ... He's Casey Candaele, an infielder with Houston this season ... His mother was a star in the All American Girls Pro Baseball League which is featured in the current movie "A League of Their Own" ... Candaele's mother led the league in batting in 1945.

DURLAND ABOUT TO SCORE: Grace Durland heads for home plate to score third run in four-run rally over Grove Plumbing in last week's playoffs.

SPORTS

Ficarro's 1 Game Short: Lose Final Playoff Game

For the Princeton-based Steve Ficarro's Auto Body team, last week's back-to-back, post-season playoff showdown with Grove Plumbing in the Women's Softball League, was good, bad and ugly.

The good was Ficarro's opening 6-3 win under the lights at Mercer Park, which forced a deciding third game. Ficarro's played well in the opener — "Heads up all around," said coach Roger Claypool. More good news for Ficarro's, the regular season champion, was Donna Nicholson's first-inning home run, the three-for-three hitting of first baseman Dee Discavage, a four-run rally by Ficarro's in the third inning and winning pitcher Carol Ann Mazzella's six-hit pitching. Ellen Leader added two hits in three at bats for the victors.

The game was played in a light rain which only got worse as the evening went on. There was no thought, however, of postponing the deciding game, reported Claypool, because the umpires felt they could get it in. Most of the girls, he added, also wanted to play to bring an end to the long season, which had begun April 21. The playoffs had been postponed two days earlier because of a heavy rainstorm.

Now for the bad: Ficarro's lost the playoff championship game, 12-11, in extra innings, although it out hit Grove 15-14 and committed three fewer errors. His team was more frustrated than disheartened at the outcome, said Claypool.

"We feel we can play better than that. The girls feel they are a better team than Grove but we made some mental mistakes in the second game. We gave them a big inning (Grove scored nine runs in the third to erase a 5-0 Ficarro lead). You can't give a team like Grove an inning like that. They hit the ball hard."

What hurt even more than the Grove bats, observed Claypool, were the number of walks his team issued. "You shouldn't walk in this game. The umps had a very tight strike zone but both teams had to contend with that; our biggest problem was we left 15 runners stranded. We didn't capitalize on our opportunities. It was an ugly game all around."

Third Overtime Loss

It was, noted Claypool, the third time this year that Ficarro's had lost to Grove

Plumbing in extra innings.

And now for the ugly. Yes, the play under poor playing conditions could be construed as ugly — although Grove fans might have felt the game was exciting. What was ugly, as far as Claypool, third baseman Grace Durland and the rest of the Ficarro squad was concerned, is the way the winning run scored.

In the bottom of the eighth inning, with one down, Jean Ruppert, Grove's veteran player-captain, had an 0-2 count but it went full when Mazzella missed on her next three pitches. Ruppert, sensing Mazzella's mounting frustration, checked her swing on the next pitch and walked.

"It's okay if you have a weird strike zone as long as you are consistent, but they changed it," said Durland, who along with the rest of the Ficarro team was critical of the plate calls.

When Carol Whitehouse fol-

Young Best at Springdale

Donna Young last week won the women's club championship at Springdale Golf Club when she defeated defending champion, Barbara Armas, 3-1. Young won the first three holes and never trailed in the match.

Young had won four consecutive women's titles at Springdale in the 1980s but did not compete the past few years.

lowed with a single, Ruppert, determined to take advantage of the wet outfield, streaked past second and headed for third. She was called safe at third on a close play. Instead of two outs, Ficarro's was faced with runners on second and third and one out.

Durland protested vehemently. "She was out. I tagged her. Neither ump moved and the homeplate ump called it. I was a catcher for a lot of years and I know when I've blocked the bag."

"That girl was out," Claypool agreed. "But the ump thought differently." A certified umpire himself, Claypool commented, "I always happen to believe if the ball beats the runner, the runner is out — unless you miss the tag. It was ugly."

Claypool then ordered the next batter walked intentionally. But with one out, all the next batter had to do was drive the ball deep and that is what Grove did, the winning run coming across on a sacrifice fly.

Said Durland, "We were furious. We were disgusted."

Wasted for Ficarro's was a three-for-five performance by Discavage (six-for-eight for the night), a triple and four RBIS by Beth Ault and two hits each by Doreen Romanchuk, Durland and Leader.

Ficarro's ended with a 27-6 record. Grove finished 23-8. "Hey, you win, you lose," summed up Durland. "We've been through a lot; we won the league. We really don't say much. If we lose, we know it. But this ...."

Softball Series Resumes Thursday

The best-of-five series between Concord Group and Ivy Inn for the playoff championship of the Princeton Recreation Softball League will resume Thursday night at 6:45 at Hilltop Park. If necessary, a fifth game will be played Tuesday.

Concord, the regular season champion with a 20-1 record, evened the series last week at one win apiece when it defeated Ivy Inn, 10-2. In the series' opening game, Ivy Inn had surprised Concord, 12-8, when it scored ten runs in the first inning after two outs.

In Thursday's game, Concord's Steve McCormick led the victors at the plate with a pair of home runs and six runs batted in. Jack Volez banged out three hits in three appearances and burly Leo Newsome contributed two hits, including a triple. Mike Santoro was the winning pitcher.

The series' third game was scheduled to be played earlier this week.

OBITUARIES

Jean T. Chorley, 87, of Rolling Hill Road, died August 15 at her home.

An area resident since 1951, Mrs. Chorley had an active career in show business before marrying Kenneth Chorley, a close associate of John T. Rockefeller Jr. and director of the restoration of Colonial Williamburg, in 1941. She was born Jeanette Baumohl in the Lower East Side of New York City and remained in the city for her schooling and early working years.

Childhood summers were spent in the Catskills where her mother worked in a relative's boarding house. Stage struck at an early age, she helped in the dining-room and staged impromptu shows for the boarders. After high school she worked as a stenographer and Spanish interpreter for a cotton goods manufacturer in Manhattan under a boss who was a pianist and composer and asked her to perform with him at charity affairs.

She studied voice at the Manhattan School of Music after working hours and as Jean Travers soon developed a singing act. Singing I've Got a Right to Sing the Blues, she auditioned to sing at the recently opened Radio City Music Hall and landed the job. That was followed by a contract with the Hudson River Day Line which involved riding up the river to Tarrytown, putting on a show with other young performers and returning to New York.

Among her many singing engagements was six months with Earl Carroll's Vanities touring group, during which she and Ray Bolger were paired in sketches. She appeared in many vaudeville theaters in Chicago and performed at Army bases during World War II. She played leading roles at the St. Louis Municipal opera, including the Ethel Merman part in Anything Goes. She also appeared on the Rudy Vallee and the Chase & Sanborn Hours.

Mrs. Chorley's first husband, Morris Triestman, was killed in an automobile accident in 1937. After she married Mr. Chorley in 1941, she no longer performed professionally. Instead she devoted herself to learning about antiques and the colonial period. The Chorleys divided their time between New York and Williamsburg, and they frequently entertained kings, queens, prime ministers and other visitors who came from around the world to see the restoration.

In 1951, the Chorleys selected a 141-year-old brick home on a 100-acre farm in Hopewell as their residence. Naming it Brickhouse Farm, they set about meticulously restoring it. They became ceramics' connoisseurs and assembled a collection of 18th-century Englishware. Mrs. Chorley often spoke to museum and women's groups on the topic, using "Where Did You Find That?" as the title of her talk.

She served as president of the board of trustees of the Old Barracks Association of Trenton from 1972 to 1974. She also continued to sing in church and for musical groups, her favorite partner being the late Dr. Lee H. Bristol, president of Westminster Choir College and a pianist, organist, and harpsichordist. In her later years she devoted herself to the individual coaching of lay readers at Trinity Church, Princeton.

Mr. Chorley died in 1974, shortly after they moved to Montgomery Township. Step-mother of the late Kenneth Chorley Jr. of Las Cruces, N.M., Mrs. Chorley is survived by another stepson, Edward C. Chorley of White Plains, N.Y.; five grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

The funeral was held Tuesday at Trinity Church. Burial was at St. Philips Church in the Highlands, Garrison, N.Y. In lieu of flowers, contributions to the Music Fund of Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street, would be appreciated.

Mavis Benedict Potter, 94, a resident of Princeton from 1938 to 1989, died August 11 at Montgomery General Hospital, Olney, Md. She had been living at Brook Grove Foundation, a health care facility in Olney, for the past three years.

Mrs. Potter worked for many years at Clayton's Yarn Shop in Palmer Square where she designed needlepoint canvases and instructed customers in needlepoint and knitting techniques.

Mrs. Potter was born in Ocean Grove and lived most of her early life in East Orange. She married Thomas Potter, Class of 1915 at Princeton University, in 1922. She and her husband were both active in Princeton Community Players. Mrs. Potter was an avid collector of antiques of all kinds and well known to many of the antique dealers in the area. She travelled to England almost yearly in search of objects to fill out her various collections.

On her 90th birthday she drove to work at Clayton's but

He was also formerly affiliated with a family business, Allen's Tavern, and was an owner of Frank's Shoe Repair Shop in Princeton.

Mr. Bates was a former employee of Carter-Wallace Inc., where he served as president of the Employee Federal Credit Union. He served on the Princeton Housing Authority.

He was a member of Frontiers International of New Brunswick, Aaron Lodge No. 9 F&AM of Princeton and C.W. Robinson American Legion Post No. 218 of Princeton. Mr. Bates was a pitcher for the Trenton-Princeton Phantoms Baseball Club, a former Princeton Jaycee, a member of the John Witherspoon Civic Association, the Princeton Housing Commission and the Princeton Square Dance Club.

He was a former member of Mount Pisgah AME Church, where he served on the Steward Board for 20 years and was a member of the Finance Committee and the Senior Choir. After moving to Trenton, he became a member of the Shiloh Baptist Church.

Surviving are his wife, Elizabeth Lamar Bates; two sisters, Thelma Bates Sifton and Dora Bates Pritchett, both of Cincinnati; and a host of nieces, nephews and cousins.

The service was held Monday at Shiloh Baptist Church, Trenton, the Rev. Keith Marshall, pastor of Macedonia Baptist Church, officiating. Burial was in Ewing Cemetery. Memorial contributions may be made to Pearl Bates Scholarship Fund, c/o the YWCA, Paul Robeson Place, Princeton 08540.
